

Weathering the storm

How Tata companies navigated their way through a global financial and market crisis

Tough times call for tough measures. As global economies collapsed like dominoes and iconic financial institutions went down in a sea of red ink, Tata companies across the board had to dig deep and develop strong strategies to ride the recession.

In this cover story, Tata Sons finance director Ishaat Hussain talks to Tata Review about the remarkable resilience shown by group companies, and heads of seven Tata companies share their perspectives on the economic slowdown. The message is clear: the recession seems to be past and the road ahead leads to a horizon of new opportunities.